The Return to Love Intelligence with Dr David Clements

Dr. David Clements,
Pam Gregory

The Return to Love Intelligence with Dr. David Clements

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Vgr7SHjO3J0 90m Oct 1, 2025

This was an enthralling and very high frequency sharing from Dr. David Clements. Dr. Clements is a theoretical physicist with advanced degrees in Maths and Physics from our most highly regarded universities in England, Oxford and Cambridge. He is now a Living Energy Systems expert, developing regenerative technologies to help humanity. This is another enthralling and inspiring conversation with him.

Previous conversations:

Infinite Possibilities: Infinite Possibilities with Dr. David Clements
A Galactic Perspective: New Potentials for Humanity with Dr. David Clements
Galactic Connections: Galactic Connections with Dr. David Clements
New Potentials for Humanity: New Potentials for Humanity
Telomeres and the Light: Telomeres and the Light with Dr David Clements

For the other sites, https://www.isee-infynergy.com/ is the ISEE site for protective innovations and https://infinitesourcecreations.com/ has the Quantum Still-point Clarifier device and the Quantum Earth Seeds innovations Also :) Dr. Clements has kindly offered all viewers of this video a 5% discount on his products, just use the code GIFT255.

PAM: Hi everyone, I know you're going to be thrilled to see Dr. David Clements again because we've had quite a few conversations now. Welcome David, it's all pure joy to spend time with you. So people have absolutely adored all of your shareings in the past and that's why you're back here again today. It's such an incredibly exciting time of humanity's evolution. So I think a lot of you listening will know David's past and background, but I will put all of the links for the conversations we've had in the past beneath this video. So you can go right back to the first one where David talked about being a theoretical physicist.

He's got two advanced degrees in maths and physics at our most distinguished universities or have been in the past Oxford and Cambridge and he specialized in string theory and then his life changed quite dramatically. He kind of threw away the textbooks. Now an expert in living energy systems, living energy intelligence systems and his work is really so pioneering and leading edge and spectacular. He has two different websites, one for the regenerative technology that he's constantly evolving to help humanity and the other where he very generously, many of these offer free shares, live streams and profound meditations that people are finding life changing. So I'll put both of those links below. You can join up a free patreon so you can listen to a lot of those live streams and meditations going forwards, but also go back in the library and access them as well. So welcome David, again.

DAVID: Thank you, Pam. I love chatting with you both doing these interviews and also as a friend as well. We've had some lovely chats and connections and it’s, as always, just such a pleasure to come back and chat with you. So I'm really happy and hello to all of your audience as well. Although I don't have a YouTube account, so I haven't I don't comment on or haven't replied to any of his comments. I do look through them and there's some really lovely and very sweet and kind comments there.

So thank you so much for those people that have been doing that and it just shows me as well the information that my teams, my high self-Source intelligence brings through just how much that's touching people and just before we begin I'd just like to share that that's such a beautiful thing. It's such a joyful thing that to see people get those and I say it many times, there are harm moments.

There's things that just take them beyond something which they may have been stuck on for a while and it just shunts them forward. It's such a magical thing to see that. So it's a great delight and I hope you get wonderful things from this interview too.

PAM: Well, I think it's fair to say you are thoroughly loved up by it. I love that, but could also like what is inspiring and joyful at a time of outer turbulence and I know we're going to touch on this as a question of a time of great apparent chaos and outer turbulence. I'll talk about this a lot in my videos as well. It is so important to keep a very different point of focus of where we were headed. Remember that analogy I used when I was I was doing that martial arts course and we were being taught to split a builder's plank.

And if you really hurt your hand, the thing was the teacher said, and this was way back when I was in my twenties and didn't know anything about astrology then, but in my early twenties, but the thing was we had to focus beneath the plank where you want to get to. And if you do that, it's really easy. And I remember splitting three in a row and felt like Hercules.

DAVID: That's cool. I'm just having this really cool vision of you doing that.

PAM: I did. I needed it actually. Anyway, that's enough, whole other story, but focusing on where we want to get to and I hope this conversation with David will really help you keep that focus of where we are going ultimately and that's so important. So what we can to do, David and I, was to talk about how we create our reality and we're still going to do that, but perhaps with a slightly different focus. So I'd really like to start, David, because I know you did a beautiful explanation in a recent webinar with Jocelyn Star Feather about how we create our reality.

But also touch on the subject of plasma because people are getting more and more interested in plasma, what it is, to hear of it’s place. And as we move into greater malleability and fluidity in our reality, if you can kind of help us understand how we are shifting from this dense and concentrated contracted state we've been in for so long, how we understand how we create our reality for the betterment of all. Is that a good start point?

DAVID: Yes, there's a lot to we could certainly dive into there. And so to begin with then, so the classical physics definition of plasma is that you have gases, solids, liquids, all the usuals, and then when gas is heated to a certain temperature it becomes a plasma, or it becomes in the plasma state.

But as you well know, that you've written about the researcher David Bohm studied plasmas in detail and he started to notice and I believe that he was one of, if not the first person to see that plasmas exhibit very different behavior that was unexpected and that was that they had a self-organizational character to them. Now let's put that in contrast because mainstream physics doesn't see anything in terms of particles, subatomic particles, atoms collections of them and gases or plasmas as being anything other than just building blocks with certain characteristics which are mathematically defined and then behave in certainly more or less predictable ways.

But the idea that these could have a sort of intelligence about them, a consciousness that they could be self-organizing is certainly not there. And this is something I wish I believe that David is there's some other work that he did as well, which was very pioneering. And you know, I think he wasn't very received by mainstream which those sort of things really aren't. Because it really is asking people to look at matter instead of being like sort of dead, unliving Lego like blocks that you just assemble in particular ways and make, whoa, I've made something or something does this. It's now asking you to look at it as it's all a collective expression of a field of a living intelligent field that creates these particulates sort of aspects of itself in order to create and bind together and make structural forms.

And one way I always explain this as an example, if you imagine, and I may have already mentioned this before, so this might be to repeat, if you imagine an ocean, and it's all continuous everywhere, there doesn't appear to be anything in it, but the ocean, the field, the Source field, the ocean is alive. And then it suddenly decides what happens if I just compress over here, oh, hang on a second, suddenly there's a clumping together a focal point of energy, which appears to be a particle or an object, I'm going to do the same over here.

And if you imagine a little bit like it decides to make little ice balls within itself it's just suddenly spontaneously freezes over here, freezes over here. Now suddenly you've got this whole field full of these particularized aspects or focal points within the field. Now what happens if they come together? Oh, that's cool. I can now make subatomic structures, molecules, molecular structures and bigger and bigger and it's all this fractalized way of sort of different levels of compression of energy and focusing of energy to create forms with particular characteristics and behavior.

And that's the other thing before we move on, one of the interesting things about this is that behind this, one of the things that my teams have made clear to me is it's within fields are a rich array of what I've come to call sort of intent codes or energetic codes. Now those intent codes are in fields, electromagnetic fields, they surround a structural matter as we call it. And so when people eat food or they go out into the daytime and they experience the Sun, people talk about codings coming from the Sun. Well, I believe that's a very real thing.

And this very intricate, very incredibly beautiful, sort of living library of codes within say a photon or a packet or a quanta of light within what we call light rays or a light field are rich with these coded intent codes. And when you absorb them, you actually absorb the coding and you can absorb that, that generative intent that comes to you. And similarly, in a way, you can also have a degenerative coding, which does the opposite because we live in a world of polarity. Now let's come back to plasma for a second, because we're going to try and sort of interlink this a little bit. Now, the more compression you have on energy, the more dense and structural it perceives. It becomes very mechanical it becomes very solid because the compression is really high.

But when you start to release the compression, now it's becoming more fluid, more morphic, its characteristics, changes, suddenly the perception of it being mechanical and having very simple mechanistic attributes and qualities of how it behaves now changes. So with plasmas, that's a great example, because as the compression comes off and the quality of the energy of what's going on in there is changing, so does the behavior.

And now, when I spoke before about under high compression, things appear to be sort of almost, we're going to see strange, almost deadlocked in a way. It appears like it's a lump of Lego just floating around, just dinging off another and just behaving in very simple ways. And there doesn't appear to be any kind of intelligent control or organization at all.
But as the compression comes off and the quality of the energetics, the fundamentals inside what you would call a plasma change, now suddenly it opens up and living energetic quality start to present themselves.
They didn't go anywhere, they were already there. But the compression was so intense and the coding inside them for their behavior was such that they behaved and made themselves look like they were just dead mechanical, highly dense structures that just behaved in very basic ways.
And one of the things that just from my experience before about meeting very advanced beings on ships is that there, many of them had bodily structures, but they weren't as we would normally think of them. They had this immaculate glow, there was this living, it's very hard to find the words to describe it. It was just this living intelligence glow in all of the material form of their body and it would emanate and it would be the same with their ships as well.
And in the Inner Earth encounters I've had when I've been down there they live in these beautiful caverns and it's rich with this sort of, it's just imbued with this living intelligent energy. You can feel it in the air, you can it's emanating from the ground. There are crystalline structures all over the place that it just glows from. It's just beautiful.
And so as humans, we've been used to this environment of being in something where we have very little experience or perception of living energetics. It all just seems to be solid walls, metal stuff, you know. And that's how a human perception has been trained to think, oh, there's nothing there. It's just a bunch of matter rolling around bouncing off each other.
But to me, the truth is that is simply the result of the game we've been playing.

And it's a two-way game because as we have descended in consciousness, so has the mirroring effect of how energy presents itself to us because we have, in fact, been requesting high density because of the drop in consciousness.
So everything has really compressed itself down. And suddenly, you're now in a very limited world, a very limited energy behavior attributes or what I call physics attributes. So again, just to remind people, when I talk about physics, physics is a synonym for me for energy behavior. That's it. It's not the study of mechanical stuff. That's just one part of the spectrum of what energy can do when it takes a highly compressed form.
But when you expand it out and look at it, it becomes something very different. Some of the experiences I've had, and when I've seen plasmic ships or sort of morphic ships, these are beautiful pulsing, moving, and it's just incredible to watch. It really is. And I couldn't begin to describe that that would be a whole conversation with itself. But the bottom line is a feel is that living energetics is the world that we're moving into. It's becoming aware of energy as a living conscious aspect of the same feel that we are a part of as well. And the more as the compression comes off, and as the fluidity and living energetics start to become more apparent, now it's interactive. Now it really changes very quickly as we change our focus, rather than in a high state of compression, where it doesn't seem to change it, it's like, wall, move, please move, and it doesn't do anything. It just stays there.
So there is an when you look at texts of the past with masters who came here, who were able to manifest on their palms, do incredible things with their with their focus. They had an access and openness to Source intelligence, where that living intelligent field could suddenly change and release the compression, bring back the living intelligent qualities into things and even imbue that back into them. And that is really another aspect, a really exciting aspect, the way I see it, of where humanity is moving, because imagine a world where you don't need to get a technological instrument to do XYZ, you can simply focus and lens your intention and your environment will morph to what it is that you're requesting. That is what we're heading, stepping, stoning towards, I believe. So yes, so in the nest of the plasma aspects, so plasmas is the first real apparent step into that world of living energetics.

And it goes higher. So it goes beyond the plasmic state into other states, where suddenly the structure itself disappears and becomes much more feel like so, you can't even really recognize that there are real structural individuated components there. So, it's this beautiful continuum of different energy states. One side is high compression limited behavior, mechanical behavior. And as you move towards a higher and more evolved energetics, you, it becomes living, it becomes self-aware, self-organizing all the other qualities that David Bohm mentioned.
And going beyond that, it starts to become this beautiful, amorphic living field. And one of my many experience with the ships that I would bilocate is the living consciousness of the ship, you would be there. And the whole field of the ship was living in interactive. This is so different from what we are used to. It's such, I mean, paradigm shift is probably even a little bit too softer a phrase to use. It's a really big jump because we've been so used to the structural compressed mechanical properties of energies. And that it's so exciting because that is what is going to change. So I, I hope that kind of encompasses a loss in what you are hoping to do.

PAM: I can see in my mind's eye this kind of luminescence that bio-photons, you can see the rest of that glow around people, that aura, but there's a kind of luminescence or radiant presence that I think are to really accelerate. We become much more of a kind of spectrum of light, of which we are just one part.
But also that we are co-creating with it in every moment. There's a constant co-creation feedback loop that isn't one way, it's always that interaction with the field out there. And so that really emphasizes something I talk about a lot, which is our focus and our attention. Where are we putting off the movement? Intention in terms of what we want to create. Not necessarily as an event, but as a frequency. Is it peace? Is it joy? Is it gratitude? And that frequency will mirror back to us. Is that, how you see it?

DAVID: Yes, and I'd love to add that was a really lovely explanation. And I'd like to sort of add in that as well, because one of the key things you mentioned there was our focus and our perception. Now, to me, one of the important things that has confined our perceptibility to what we appear to see is dead mechanical structure. It's part of the, the lowering in consciousness, the confinement of consciousness we've experienced. Now, as we evolve and as we expand and we're raising up quite innately because of everything that's going on, what's actually happening in a big way is our perception. Our perception is really expanding and opening up because the stuff that I'm talking about, it's not that it just isn't there and it just comes in once things take off whatever you want to call it. There are, you are actually sitting in a rich field of multi-dimensionality right now.

And the reason why you're not able to perceive it properly or in the most part is because our perception energetics have been tuned and focused to a very particular small bandwidth of the dimensional or vibrational energetics environment, if you want to see it that way. Now, what that means is, it's like just an analogy with one of those old radios when you tune it up and down, you go to different stations. We've been tuned to such a low station. All we can hear is this and you'd swear, that's the whole world. This is all I hear, there's nothing else. Truth is, all those other frequencies and layers of reality are simultaneously overlaid, but you haven't tuned to them yet and that's the thing.

So it's really about really and this is the thing I say to people, and that the Arcturians said to me a while back when I was really getting a little frustrated with an invention they were trying to get me to create and I was trying to be too heady about it.

And when I relaxed, and they said, and I know I said this before, but it's a really good reminder, is that you're going to find that living with the perception of your heart intelligence is going to be a world apart from living from the perception of your intellectual intelligence. And people tend to associate intelligence with intellect, and that they're one and the same. Well, intellect is one facet of intelligence, but the core of intelligence is here [puts hand on his heart] and this is what I believe humanity is coming back to, and this is where our perception is going to change.

Because by practicing coming down into the core intelligence, the level of energetics or physics I've been able to perceive and this is another thing because people tend to say and love has these beautiful qualities, it's soft, it's kind, it's compassionate, but it's also the master physicist, it's the master chemist, the master artist, the master linguist, it's everything that you could possibly ever want. It is the most beautiful energy, and it's the creator of all. You know, I really want to remind people of that especially scientists and engineers is out there that might be thinking, oh, I got a second, this has got a little bit airy for me.
Well, the truth is that the Source intelligence, which we give it a name, we call it love, but love is simply a word that points to the Source intelligence. It is the master intelligence of all, it is benevolent, it is kind, it is compassionate, but it is also the ultimate physicist, the ultimate maker of everything and anything and is a purely creative energy as well.
All new things have to come from the Source intelligence, it's that which does it, and we'll come onto that later because I know you want to move on with that subject, but essentially just to really bring the that the point here is that when you learn to align yourself with that core Source intelligence within, you call it your higher self, we call it the heart of your soul, the sacred heart whatever you want to call it. Suddenly, your level of perception is going to change, you're going to be able to perceive things, feel things, sense things, intuit things, see things that you never could before. That certainly happened to me and I'm not joking when I say that, that really was very, very palpable, the difference.
And I've been able to see things that they said you simply will not see using your intellect when you use your intellect to do things, you're going to reach a wall, you're going to reach a ceiling, because the mind itself is a beautiful instrument, but in the moment, it's a structural device and it can only perceive in the same nature with which it operates. And so its level of perception has an inherent limitation to it.

But if you really want to see the very deep and meaningful energetics, the living energetics behind things, you need to go into the core. So yes, that that really is something I feel is a very important message to help people with for sure.

PAM: And the reason from my point of view, I feel your work is just right on time is if I'm looking at this picture astrologically, it's a hugely concentrated focus period of acceleration in the next few months in particular. There's so many convergences that I've banged on about in various videos over the last sort of 18 months, I say, whether you're looking at cosmology, astronomy, astrology, teachings, physics whatever we're looking for, there's this incredible convergence happening right now. And so from your point of view, are you also seeing this as a convergence of very accelerated evolution that we're right smack bang in the middle of right now?

DAVID: Yes, I do. And it's got many facets to it, one of which is this shift in perception, the offering of social intelligence for humanity to come back into heart intelligence and heart perception. And it comes with it so many different paradigms because the old, as we know it, has been very much sort of founded, predicated, whatever you want to call it, on structural energetics where things were just controlled into place and control structures upon control structures and so on. Because force is just the application of pressure with as an alternative to creative intelligence living intelligence manifestation, being morphic with energies, all the powerful things that come with being a creative being. So those groups of beings or humans that have chosen to go into that control, that paradigm, it's all about force, it's all about pressure, those kinds of things and big systems have been created out of that whole paradigm.

And now what we have is, now the time has come, where humanity is making this transformation. And the energetics have right down to the very subatomic themselves are changing, which means their behavior is going from dead mechanical structure to living energetics, which means that control starts to dissolve away and becomes just literally becomes a nothing-burger essentially and it's all about part and parcel of showing humanity, you see, you are leaving the control paradigm. I always say it's funny because if you look at the word control, the we say, to understand the kind of the characters that operate in it is in the last four letters and to understand what it's really about is in the first three. So it's quite funny that that was put together.

But anyway, so what is really happening, I feel, is that humanity is going through these step-by-step movements to learn to just let go of any belief system, anything that you have, any energetic that you hold, which aligns you with the control paradigm, with the high densified structured paradigm.
What is it that's keeping you there? And you mentioned perception before on what we focus on. That's really, really important because when we continually focus on those same concepts, that is what we are cyclically recreating within ourselves. It's a bit of a feedback loop.
And so, let me, the ability to take a step back, relax, breathe rhythmically is that the team say, or however you feel you want to do it, and breathe yourself into your center again, is something that I would really encourage people to quite often practice doing, even just like a few minutes here or there, whenever you catch yourself throughout the day, being a bit stressed or moving out of your center.
And one way I would say, and we spoke about this before recording, is for anybody wondering, well, how do I know I'm out of center? Well, while you're in your center, you're at peace. You have a very crystal clear focus.
But the focus isn't a grip. It's not like, yes, I'm focused on stuff. You know, I really am that zone. That's not what heart center focus is about. Being in heart center focus is a crystal clear open clarity of seeing the whole thing.
You know, you're not gripping on anything. You're not holding on anything. You're in a very neutral, very peaceful, centered observation of things. That's so if you find yourself getting to involved with things outside getting really caught up in sort of anger or fear, those kind of things, that those are all indicators that you are now away from your center.
Because to give you an example, when I've been up with these are very advanced beings, when I look at them, these are these are really centered beings. You know, now when you look into their eyes, it's just peace and grace. There's not an ounce of push, pull, control, fear, any of that. They are so in such a crystal clarity of perception state, but it involves no grip, no control.

And they have a full spectral perception of you. Because the more you let go of grip, if you think about it, when you're gripping on something, you are confining your focus to what you are gripping it. You have locked your focus onto the grip, what you're gripping onto you. As you relax, just like the compression coming off of energetics, suddenly your perception opens up and now you have a very full spectral perception energetically.
And so that's another thing people talk about having a high degree of focus. Well, to me, you can lens your focus, but make sure that you let go if you're doing that, because it's going to come back into your center where you have that full perception clarity again because the type of focus that humanity has used over many, many years, hundreds, thousands of years, is in fact a focus of control and grip, you know.
And I remember one being once saying that what has developed in humanity is that the mind's version of understanding is control. The heart's version of understanding is compassion. It's very different.
PAM: So encouraged to constantly through many lifetimes defer to external and that how we become very agitated. And what I've often suggested to me is stick post-it notes all over your house bathroom. And covered the wall saying, “Are you at peace?” Yes. Yes. And that's how when you're in the run of your day, you can yourself, and if you're not at peace, find your easiest default method of booking that instantly. Is it simply closing your eyes and watching your breath? Is it kind of a new thing? Is it listening to a particular kind of music? I mean, I've had a very fast moving day today. I pressed the button to connect with David. I knew I had to just go out and put their feet on the grass. I had to de-break before I engaged, because I was just too buzzy. There had been too much happening. I thought with myself, but we were also talking David about the importance.
And it's again something I've talked about endlessly is living from the inside out, not the outside in. Yes. Yes. So much drama. So many events, so much dynamic unfolding. So many of them in the coming weeks and months and our habit has been either someone's coming to save us or whatever, my goodness.

And what you were really emphasizing, what is most important is this data being, which again, I'm talking about a lot of in my work. So what would you like to share about that? Because I know it's so crucial in your teams really wanted to bring that forward as an important message today.
DAVID: Yes. Thanks for sharing that. That's a really good topic. One of the things is you were saying that my teams were, and my high self was showing was an image of, imagine a sphere, a little bit like this image here, this beautiful glowing sphere of the Sun here. And imagine yourself as that being, now glowing with energy. And that's the state of being purely centered in the full spectrum, observer state. And now suddenly you start arranging and putting your focus on different things.
So when you focus, it's like a portion of that light comes out as the, see this little beam here that's coming out? Imagine that would be your focus on something over here. Suddenly your energy moves in that direction, your lensing your energy and directing it somewhere. Now imagine over layers and layers of lifetimes that you have brought forward from previous ones to this one, and all the series of trainings to be so ultra-focused on everything outside you have. Suddenly you've got tons of these rays of energy pouring out. It's depleting you. It's really holding you. It's a little bit like they were saying a little bit like puppet strings. All these strings come out of you, and people can get sort of moved around in all sorts of different directions.
But if you come back into center and you learn to understand that instead of being reactive, which is having all those things all over the place being pulled by different areas of what you're focusing on, instead it's learning responsibility, your ability to respond and choose how and if when you direct your energy, if at all, but always to remain in center and then choose how do I wish to direct my energy? Nothing outside is going to dictate or tell me what I'm to focus on. I will choose what I focus on, how I focus on it, if I focus on it at all.

And that's a big thing because humanity from the word go has been trained outside, outside, outside, outside, outside with nothing on the inside. That's one of the biggest tricks to be played that people actually reinforce themselves and this is not meant in any kind of judgmental way. I've gone through this process myself and realizing how I was doing it as well.
What we have learned to do is be so ultra-focused on everything outside to plan, to move, to put things into place, these kind of things that we have gone through a process of almost completely forgetting the wellspring of the unlimited Source intelligence we have inside us and being so interconnected with what we focus on that we're playing this jostling game all the time with things we focus on trying to keep one step ahead or maintain an upper hand, whatever you want to call it, you know.
And again, to draw an analogy with these beautiful beings that I've encountered, they have this sublime centeredness you could go all crazy in front of them, they would just smile at you.
Yes, yes, exactly, they could be screaming, shouting, spitting in front of the boss something, they would just simply smile at you. They don't have that kind of outer attachment focus that we have cultivated or been taught to cultivate they have such an inner centeredness and they can choose how they apply their energy, where they focus their energy, if they focus their energy and it's such a beautiful state of being. So they have this beautiful sort of vessel around them within their bodies and the fields around that have just filled with Source intelligence.
And they're so good at how they apply that. And I can feel them as saying, there's one message they would really love to encourage humanity to really begin to ponder on and play with what do you do with your energy? Are you really making the choice to focus on something or are there belief systems inside you that are reacting and causing you to just innately focus on things without even making that choice to do so? And they're saying that the more that you practice the simplicity and they're saying this is not complicated.
And they're saying love me, they say this is one of the things that humans are so good at is complicated things. You know, people want they think the more sophisticated and complicated is the more cooler it is or whatever, you know.

But the truth is, is somebody who's been in those areas of complex analytics and all that kind of stuff, I can say firsthand that you will find the most beautiful, blissful, deeper, most profound truth and simplicity than you ever will in complication having gone through those sides. Now, as you center within yourself, things are going to come into your awareness, you'll start to become aware of deeper truths without even efforting. You won't even analyze or work anything out. You will just know because the knowingness is already there, that you're letting through Source intelligence and all that comes with it. That's one of the beautiful things.
And so there is a great deal, I feel that the teams are saying what they're noticing. There's a great deal of outward focus on what's going to happen here. What's what are they doing? One of the ETs coming down to save us and a whole slew of different things. And the message I can feel it's the Arcturians coming through now and the Pleiadians there as well, they're saying, we are in a state of delight waiting to meet you.
But there is a transitional process that humanity must go through where you learn to be centered. They're saying very clearly, we are not your saviors. You are here to elevate yourselves and to show that you can elevate and you most definitely can do that. They're saying they're saying do not fool yourselves into thinking you cannot do this, most definitely you can.
And you've done it many times before, they're saying, the reason why you are here is because you are selected. There are, it's like, I've heard this before and I feel they're mirroring this. There are so many beings that wanted to come here.
But the ones that were sort of allowed through the gates, so to speak to, to incarnate here were the ones that have had the experience, the ability to break these stuck systems before and evolve themselves.
So if you are here, you are one of them and so they're saying shed the veneer of self-doubt. It's nonsense. They're saying it really is. Just allow yourselves to feel the simplicity in this saying, don't think it. That's one of the big missteps a lot of people do. They try and think themselves into, yes, I'm this, yes, I'm that. They're saying, we are, we ask you to feel the truth of this. Don't invent a mirage of what you think you are, because what you really are, you can't think it's, it's beyond your ability of your, your beautiful mind to be able to comprehend.

But if you can sit in the more you practice connecting with here and just relaxing, surrendering to your center practice, practice, practice, it's, it's really getting your whole system to just gently step by step, realign itself back with that soft, powerful, infinite center. You'll get realization after realization in each step after each step as you do that.

[*39 minutes]
And they're saying something is going to happen.
We're not going to tell you what, we're not going to spoil the surprises, but they're saying the reason why they're not going to is because it will spoil the beauty of the experience. Something profound awaits in the heart center of each human. And it's coming forward. And they're saying, when you connect with this, when you really surrender into this, life is going to change permanently. It is something this is, it's interesting. These are the first sensations I'm getting of this. I mean, I think they've been showing me in bits before, but not quite in this, this forward, forward way before.

And they're saying this is for everyone, including me as well. So, okay, is there anything else you'd like to share on this? Not for the moment. And they're saying that you and everyone listening to this message will be utterly delighted. And they're saying they've noticed we've talked about that word delight before. And so they're saying the word delight will take on a whole new meaning. The sensation of delight in itself, they're saying, that is what they live in, in each moment all the time. They never fall from that delight.
And it is a delight in being alive. It is a delight in existence. It is a delight in creativity in ever unfolding and expansion. They're saying what, what you have found yourselves temporarily caught up in at the moment, will seem like an entire nonsense when you, you feel this state inside you. And they're saying, we know that that might seem to many people right now to be a sort of, so I'm not sure what word you use there. More of a sensation they're giving me. It's more like people are saying, oh, but things are so tough.

And they're kind of more or less. That's what they were kind of suggesting. They're saying, when you allow yourself peace to really settle down and just relax those attached focuses on all these outer goings on, something is going to come up inside you. It's going to present itself to you very bit by bit as you're ready for it.
And when you finally merge into that and really align with that, just, but just magical things are going, I just, I'm getting a slight sensation of what it is now, but it's, it's almost like an, an entire paradigm of knowing is going to come into your being. And then you'll look at everything that's going on, and you're just going to burst out laughing. They're saying you're going to see it for what it is in terms of the true energetics of what's been going on and all of the facades, all of the heavy weight of fear and anguish and all the other emotions that all of us have one time or another attached to things going on, we'll just quickly fade away. I can feel them saying.
PAM: Beautiful. And, David, just before we press the record button, your teams are bringing through the idea of ignition, there's some kind of, right? Yes. Yes. I'm very much thinking for astrologers out there, Uranus, Conger, Sedna, exactly to the degree. And so it suggests that it isn't a logical linear process. It's some kind of jump that's, that's going to happen fairly imminently, because we're in process..
DAVID: Yes, they're saying this is part of the ignition. There is, what I'm seeing is literally again, I'm I chose this background, I, because it looked very pretty, but now I can see it's actually really helpful. I think that my high self had a hand in putting this up. So if you look at this Sun here, again, what they're showing me is an image in the human heart center coming through the infinite Source gateway, or whatever words you want to call it, there's this connectivity between your heart, your energetic heart, your soul heart that you have, and your direct connection with Source intelligence. That is coming through, something is going to be introduced into the human heart, which is going to ignite, and it's going to look like this at the center.

And it's going to be really profound. And they're saying, there aren't any words to describe this. And this is why they hold back and refrain from speaking too much about it, because this is a purely experiential thing. And they're saying, this is the ignition that they spoke of. There is going to be an ignition, and it's within you, every one of us. This is not something a lot of people focus on a lot of things.
And like I said before, it's quite fun to look at this stuff. There's a lot going on, but as long as you keep centered you don't attach yourself to the goings on, and you understand that these are reflections of our transition inside and there are helpful things that come in from all different angles to help the ignition.
But ultimately, it's about the ignition within the human heart of the return to Source intelligence. And that is what is being offered. And that is what we're going through. The Earth they're saying is going through her ignition as well. We're going through it together.
And her ignition is causing this beautiful emanation to emanate from the center of the Earth.
And they're saying the Sun is doing the same. There is a three way ignition between the Earth, humanity, and our Sun, they're saying and it's very, very profound.

And again, there's smiling, laughing a lot, they're saying, we know they can already read the potentials of people who are going to be watching this. As we already know you're using the word almost incessantly need to know more information.
And they're saying, with this, sincerest love that we would really ask you to experience this because the beauty and what you're going to experience is going to be something that you cannot describe with words. It wouldn't even come close to what's coming.
PAM: That's just a beautiful message that you're sharing with us, David. And I think this is going to be so welcome to people who feel they're in the thick of the trench almost of challenge. Yes, absolutely. And very tired. And I think it will really boost and inspire people, which is so beautiful. And another aspect of our reality that you wanted to touch on as well was something that you call absence of intelligence.

DAVID: Yes. Well before we do that, there was another message I felt they wanted to just bring just on the back of what we were saying there. And they were saying that for those people that are really feeling down and just depleted and just really a lack of sense of hope, they're saying very genuinely ask yourself the question from where are you getting your hope from, where are you getting your energy of excitement from? Is it outside of you? Because they're saying, if so, you will be disappointed.

And this is what's going to happen and they're saying, what has happened. And they're saying they say this very jokingly they wish to excite and inspire people by being funny about it, not being by I don't think they have an ounce of solemnness or seriousness about that. They're very playful. Well, now one of the things is that what humanity again coming back to humanity being trained to sort of see everything outside of them. What happens when you we've gone through this experience of a lack or apparent lack of connectivity with Source intelligence, the wellspring, the unlimited unstopping wellspring of pure love, pure joy, pure intelligence, pure compassion, all of the good things.

So now if you're in a human body with a lack of that connectivity, now what do you do for your kicks? Your happiness, your general sort of well-being. So what's happened is we've had to turn to things outside of us, events, parties, get to get lots of external things that we attach, that we look forward to them. They think, yes, when I have that, I'm going to feel so great. That's going to give me my kick for next week or something like that.

And they're saying, this is part of the ignition process. What you're going to find is, and they're saying for those people who are feeling the sort of downward pull, it's because this is this is an invitation to understand your overdependence, your overconnectivity to things outside of you that are based on attachment, not a love connection in a way.

And so those things are really coming up in people's faces and say, Hey, do you really want to keep doing this? Do you see what it just do you see what it's doing? It's just pulling, pulling, pulling, pulling. It's never going to give you what you want. It's an illusion. It's a mirage.
But instead, if you come inside and you practice heart connectivity, you're going to find an innate self-value, you're going to find an innate self-joy that is not dependent on anything, any event, any one, anything outside of you. Now, when you are in that place, like with those beautiful beings, that emanation of pure joy, you need nothing outside of you.
But when you do interact with things outside of you, the interactivity with another being who's operating at the same, the amplification of that sweet Source intelligence is immense. It's not like the weird, some of the weird interactions with humans have where there's this push, pull and take and all this kind of stuff that goes on. It is a completely different experience. They're not into that. They're saying, yes, what they experience in that interconnected state within the heart center is vastly different.
And they're saying, this is what will come to you. So they're saying, be reassured, those people who are feeling the, oh my God, when is this going to be over. When are we going to be safe? What's going to happen? They're saying, let go of that. Let go. Learn to let go of attachment. You are safe. They're showing me that image of that old human phrase of one monkey swinging into another tree and I'm not going to let go the other one. Grab the other brush to let go the other one.
And they're saying, let go and trust back in yourself. This is the same Source of intelligence that created this entire universe. It knows what it's doing. Trust, that is you. You're at the birth point of everything in this entire creation. That's what you're letting go to. That's what you're trusting in. You're not putting false hope or hopium into anything.
You're literally returning to the very well Source of where you came from and all the things that you have been seeking and trying to get through external attachment, through external events or happenings or this or yada, yada, yada or anything. They're saying that will fall away. You will need none of it because you will realize and you will feel the innate sweetness that is going to emanate from you continuously in every moment nonstop.

And that is the place that you're going to live from. So they're saying when you feel yourself in those awkward states, just remember that and try and just practice bringing yourself again and again and again back into the center. Help that ignition come faster and deeper for you by practicing that connection.
And keeping it as fun and as playful as joyful is the only way to do it. You know, don't get serious about it. Be playful, be fun. These teams, these are really advanced beings. I kind of besides that enough, play and fun and joyfulness is at their centers, what they do and that's really hopefully another message to show you. If these beings that invent, that invent these, advanced things that everyone thinks, wow, is that so cool? Well, they do it from a place of fun and joy and playfulness. That is the center of them. So just remind yourselves of that as well. So I just wanted to lead that message because they felt they really wanted to bring that across to your people.
PAM: I mean, I can get that in nature very easily. See in the joy and wow, look at that. Yes. I'm in the nature. Wow it can be quite childlike in wonder and awe. And I yes, yes, yes, In nature. And what you're sharing is so important and fundamental and beautiful. It really is, it's almost that we are on the brink, whatever that means in time, of becoming kind of realized beings. Yes, yes. There's more luminous realized beings and we're on track for that because this is a one-way moving in for that.
DAVID: Well, one of the things to add to that as well is before we incarnated, this was the plan. When people talk about all the plan, to me, it really is quite simple. It's simply the ignition and ascension of the human being and the Earth in the Sun at the same time. And we all knew that this was a given, not, oh, let's see if we can make this work. It was a given before we came in.
What is up to choice is what wobbles we take to get there. So be rest assured that the ascension process is a Source intelligence and all the immaculate teams and beings that work to bring this to fruition. It is a done deal? There is there is no ambiguity there. There is no doubt. But like I said, because we have free choice, the only freedom of wiggle we have really is like, how do we choose to get from this end of the field to that end of the field? We can go all the way around the edge if we want to, or we can take the easy path. It's up to us. But there is absolutely no question that because this is the nature of the living intelligence of the universe. It didn't create itself to fall to pieces. It created itself to expand, to have joy, to have adventures, to explore, to do beautiful things, to create, to love, to do all these beautiful things. That is the many different qualities from a human perspective about how the Source intelligence is.

And it's just because of this polarity experience that we've had to experience where we've got the experience of the illusion of the opposite. And so those paradigms are crumbling down now, and then the veils are coming off and we're coming back to what it is to live in the center, not in polarity, as we have been doing, but in the center, which is the Source intelligence state of being, definitely.

PAM: Beautiful. So maybe this is a good time now, David, to talk about one of the possible distractions that we create. Yes.

DAVID: Yes, I sort of lovingly call it absence of intelligence. And I'm sure people will understand what's meant by that with the first two letters of. And one of the things I would like to say about it is what the teams have shared with me. Please don't make the mistake of thinking that a technological mimicry can be the same as Source intelligence. It cannot. To give you an understanding, what I call lovingly, absence of intelligence is foot rooted, footed in structure. It has to be structural. Structure makes up a tiny, tiny, tiny portion of all of existence.

And it can only exist in a highly compressive state of energy. As energy is raised, as anything starts to raise up, the ability for structure to behave in the ways that it is done starts to change. It can't exist in the paradigm anymore. And now suddenly matter becomes more under the intelligent influence, like David Bohm was talking about plasma's exhibiting self-organization behavior, as those that compression lifts off suddenly Source intelligence comes more into play.

And those things start to behave differently. And now so one of the things about absence of intelligence, people think, oh, it can make these amazing images, amazing videos, that kind of thing.
But what is it actually doing? What it is doing, it is taking a whole series of images that are there as part of the training and morphing aspect of it. And it's amalgamating them together to try and make something new. It hasn't actually created anything new. It's mauled together, what is existing there. And so what it is, it's a technological memory tree that just amalgamates and it permutates. That's all it does. It can't create anything. Now, creative intelligence is Source intelligence. If you want to create something brand new, that is where it comes from.
And people say, oh, yes, I have ideas about stuff all the time. I have an intellectual stuff. I create something, are you creating something new? Does your intellect really create something new? Or is it just mauled together? Ideas, thoughts from previous experience puts them together and appears to create something new out of the combination. It's like having a kitchen full of like 10 million ingredients. The ingredients are set. All you have to do is mix it up in different ways and come up with some new things.
But what if you can’t change the ingredients? Only Source intelligence does that, you know. So you can mimic the apparently of intelligent creativity, but it's only a mimicry and it's only an apparently. It's not in real. It's not in truth, a real thing.
Now, the other thing to this is as well, one of the many qualities of Source intelligence is compassion. Technological mimicry doesn't have access to that. It simply behaves in the way that it's designed to do and the way it's been trained to do. That's it. And so it's no substitute in any way, shape or form whatsoever.
And I say to people, if you imagine, the Source intelligence that you have inside you that you can choose to open up to if you wish is the same master physicist intelligence, the same master compassion that developed and created the entire universe, every galaxy, every subatomic particle, everything you see in existence, why would you possibly want to invent a mimicry? A very small scale, extremely limited mimicry of that as a substitute.

It makes no sense, even on a thought level when you put it like that. And so that's what I would say is to me, it's a sense, another distraction away from the true intelligence you have inside you. And I know that there are different races that have evolved beyond it that did have forays into this, into that environment, created all sorts of things that were based on it all went horribly wrong. There were big battles and all sorts of things, and they learned their lesson because ultimately what is it that stops you harming another being?
Well, it's the Source intelligence, the compassion within you that chooses not to, it's not a program, it's not a checklist. I know some people do operate that way, but ultimately what makes you benevolent is the benevolence of the intelligence that is at your core. That's not something that you can mimic technologically, because technology is itself a structure. And structure does as structure is designed, that is it. Now, if it's designed from a place to somebody that's highly intellectual, has little to no connection with their Source intelligence, and has odd ideas about what to do with it, that's how it's going to behave or the mimicry is going to appear to behave.
So I would say that my excitement is that we are moving into this beautiful living, organic intelligence, heart-centeneness of humanity, where we will be able to create and invent things that are far beyond any intellectual capacity, and that is coming, and introduce things in a way that are way beyond…
When I see the kind of innovations and ships that these beings have, they are profound, but they're not technologies, as we think of them, these are living conscious beings, vessels and the higher they go, the more like feeling they become, and they can do the most imaginable things that you simply cannot do with structured technology.
There are literally limits because it is limited by the compression that it's in. It's like having a game where you make the rules so condensed, it's like, this is all you can do, have fun and you go off and you do what I said, and you have your exploration, you realize, that I think I've pretty much done everything that could be done in this realm, reached the limit, and then when you realize that when you come back into your creative ship and your center again, it's unlimited again, you have unlimited creativity, and to me, in a nutshell, absence of intelligence is really the fascination of people who are intellectually orientated that have to a degree lost that connection or are ignoring the connection or don't want the connection inside with this Source intelligence within. I know that sounds like a very broad sweeping kind of summary, but in a nutshell, that's pretty close to the truth, I would say.

PAM: Yes, because organic intelligence is infinite, isn't it, David? Yes. Yes. And then what you're referring to always has a finite end, it has no heart, it has no heart, it has no divinity. When I was being asked in a recent interview about my thoughts on it, I actually started a conversation with a donkey on my morning walks and edited out of the interview, but it wasn't, and I'm now getting people writing to me about my conversations with donkeys, so, but at that is organic, and at a different level, the other thing that concerns me is that the technology, you're talking about takes an immense amount of power, electricity, food, and a huge amount of water to cool down the servers.

And if I'm thinking of poor Indian and African people who walk very long distances to get buckets of water for the day, somehow our global value system has gone pretty wonky in that we're having an inappropriate use of water over here to do something which we think is very sophisticated and civilized, but actually it's just so far away from life and heart and love.

So I'm really glad that you've spoken about that. I think that that's going to be very helpful for people because it's very easy to be diverted by that novelty, but it's kind of, if I'm looking at it astrologically, it's a repeat of a very large cycle, which is what you're referring to earlier. Okay, but coming around again, are you going to do the same again humanity? You know, giving away your pattern, and it's done on yet again, or are we going to do it differently this time?

DAVID: There's one thing I'd love to say, because as you were speaking, again, that they were showing me an image, they're saying that I'll try to decode what they gave me. It was really a very clear image. And they've shared this before that what the human form is moving into because the very nature of the building blocks of the body right down to the sub-atomics all the way to the molecular DNA and so on, because DNA is shaped in a very, very divinely designed way.

And it's almost in a way that they're saying, think of a tuning fork. It's a tuning fork to allow your body to be attuned to be a perfect receptor to Source intelligence. Now, bits and pieces of mechanical silicon and all that kind of stuff doesn't do that. It's not designed to do that in that way, you know.

But the human body is this immaculate system, and they're saying when humanity goes through this process and evolves, you're going to find that the human body itself, every subatomic particle, everything is going to be interconnected in this living, organic, Source intelligence web form, if you like.

And they're saying the ability to perceive, create and transform energies in that state is beyond, far beyond, just in one human body that all the collective of absence of intelligence is could possibly even hope to get clear. They wouldn't even get there. It just, and that's just one human body.

They're saying that the your ability to perceive energetics from across the galaxy, and I know they've spoken about this before, and to have this rich living library access system, which will be the human body like the other racers who have had these forays into experimenting with absence of intelligence and then realize, bad idea, we should have this, let's change direction, realized that, and one group in particular, I think it was the Atlanteans said that they realized what nonsense that was to even do that.

And they realized that accessing Source intelligence and a body that is really attuned to that gives you access to things that you couldn't even dream of in doing technologically. It's just, I felt like they just were showing me that message again from a different perspective particularly to do with the makeup of the human body, how things are going to transform, how things are going to change because the difficulty at the moment is because people are operating in such a relatively disconnected state, they still have the overlays of feeling like, oh technology is the solution, everything's, but they haven't had the sampling, the feeling, the sensation just how unlimited and vast that Source intelligence is inside them.

And like these other races found when they did switch back to that, they realized, my goodness, what were we doing? That was really a wrong road to go down and they did realize that in the end. So yes, I just felt to say that as well.
PAM: Beautiful, you've just bestowed, as always, David, just bestowed so many gifts on us that I wasn't expecting to come out. And you know, we just let the conversation be spontaneous and flow. And I think it will really help people to find that anchor point, their center, their anchor point, yes, they're absolutely knowing that we are in the process of this happening.
And it's so grateful to you. And I'm speaking on behalf of, I know, a lot of the viewers who love you, love you to bits. And there will be so much love and gratitude to you for this sharing as well. And just before we go, is there anything else you feel that you or your teams would like to share with us, particularly as we enter these very, very dynamic three months, I think, till the end of the year?
DAVID: Yes, there's a few things and there may be, I can ask them at the end if they want to bring a message through, but what they're impulsing me with in the moment is particularly Source intelligence. And this is also for me as well as a human being is that to all of you, remember that the same things that you might see in me that you is the same thing that is in you.
So when I give this information, the same abilities to give it the same access, it all dwells within you. There is no difference. So for example, many of you might think, Oh, I wish I was more scientific, I wish I could do that. You can, you already can. The master physicist, the master energy creator is in you and you know, you may have chosen a life to go through certain things and focus on them just to puzzle piece solving.
But in truth, everything that you might see in other people that you revere or might like, it's all within you and I am not saying that just to butter your bread or make you feel better. It really is the truth, really.

Remind yourself if you feel less than or down or not quite up to scratch, up to scratch to what? You were part of creating the entire universe. What's there to be up to scratch to and this is a truth, I believe that people are returning to very slowly.
And like I said, that that remembrance, that sensation of that really is going to come back to you, you are really going to feel it the more you connect in here. There's no substitute whatsoever for the core intelligence inside you. And that's the most important thing that anyone can ever do in my view is keep connecting, keep asking your high self to come into you, flood you in mercy with that love light, help your body go through the changes gracefully and adapt to becoming a pure vessel of your high self, your Source intelligence. Because when you're there, I get to see a look back and think, my goodness, why did I have anything like that? It's like it's going to seem so funny here really well.
PAM: I personally felt a shift even just having this last hour with you, actually, I felt quite a signal. I've always super, super grateful. And would your teams like to bring through anything in the channeling? Would that be appropriate? How do you feel doing it?
DAVID: Okay, so, Source love intelligence, my high self, my love light family is any message that you would like to channel through. And yes, Source intelligence would like to bring one through:

Greetings, beloved souls. It is with great joy that all of creation is in fact experiencing. whether they realize it or not, in civilizations that span this galaxy and beyond, are aware that tremendous leaps that you humanity is making. You see, you are simply not just going through what you call the ascension process for yourselves.
And indeed the Earth herself. The magnificence of what you are taking part in is most certainly causing a profound ripple effect that civilizations beyond any of the galaxies you can currently see with what you call your telescopes are experiencing. This stage in creation is vast.
And you, dear humans, are playing what you would call a major role in this. It has been spoken before that there are so many eyes from different civilizations, different forms that are both delighted and excited to see the steps that you take and indeed are helping in a multitude of ways.

And what is this all about?
Sweet ones, it is about love. You are returning and indeed evolving into a human vessel that will become a pure vessel of the intelligence of love itself. For far too long, some might say, humanity has experienced this disconnection, this appearance as if Source love intelligence did not exist at all.
As if you had been left alone, in a human phrase, nothing could be further from the truth. You see by going through these trials and tribulations you have allowed yourselves to go into depths of illusion, contraction and compression that were very deep indeed.
And what is it that you have attained by doing so?
And here is the key, one of many as to why so many civilizations are going to feel the ripple effects of what you are doing. By going into this depth of the ocean, let us say, and making waves in blasting your light quite literally into the density within and around you that light permeates all the way through different levels, seeding solutions, seeding activations, seeding the ability to dissolve existing systems that confine consciousness in realms and worlds that you know not the names of.
Do you see dear ones? What you are doing, what you are taking place in, what you are actively doing, by simply being the presence of love intelligence at this depth of density. You are transforming and offering transformation to all of existence. Does the profoundness of what you are doing, where you are, what you are going through, coming into deeper clarity and purpose, for it does, sweet ones. You are loved beyond measure. You are love and you will always be love. Even though you may choose to fool yourselves otherwise.
As you move through these steps and you reach closer to the points of ignition. That point when a deep opening within your heart centers will activate, you will understand in a way that you simply cannot comprehend at this time. This is coming and it is coming fast.
And so sweet ones, find the sweet center, the infinite center of who you are. The more you do this, the more you practice, the more you allow the infusion of this Source intelligence into your consciousness, into your minds, your beings, your cells, the very fabric of your DNA. The enlightening process is innate. It is simple. In the coming days, if you find yourself moving away from this center, as has been spoken of, remind yourself, come back to center.

All of that which transpires outside of you, the turmoil, the activity, the strife. This is the old energy, dissolving away. You see in many ways, these external energy systems require you, sweet ones. They require your focus upon them to sustain them.
But you are shifting back into heart-centered intelligence, releasing these attachments, these external focuses based on fear that have been feeding and supporting these old paradigm systems.
And the more you come back inside, the more these systems will dissolve and dissolve, they are, and you see it every day. Do not be disheartened by what you see. Be excited, sweet ones.
Be excited. For this is the transformation you have been asking for and requesting, and you knew before you incarnated, many, many cycles that this was going to happen, and that this is the lifetime that it is going to happen in. This is a very special time, sweet ones. The floor is yours, the choice is yours.
And as a last gift in this communication, if you are willing, your individual higher selves would love to offer you a gift. This is quite purposeful. This gift in many ways is to deeply help advance the coming ignition, the ignition of your truth, the sweet love intelligence that is going to dissolve through a barrier within your heart-center. And the realizations, the understanding, the compassion, the beauty within you, will be as if a wellspring that never switches off. You will delight in your very being in ways you simply cannot understand at this time.
And so if you wish to experience this gift from your higher selves, simply say yes to your higher self. And it is asked of you to wait just a moment. Relax. Let go. Allow your selves, if you will, to play in the energy that is coming through to you now, from your higher selves. Let go of all grip. Let go of trying to think of what has been given to you. Relax into the sweetness, the centeredness of the energy that has been given to you as if walking into a beautiful warm ocean, completely relaxed, enjoying every moment in peace and centeredness. Relax and feel the bliss, the serenity. You are now closer to who you really are than you were before. And so it is.

PAM: That was profound. I really felt that.
DAVID: Yes, me too. I do a lot of connection with my heart center. Yes, that was very beautiful. That was just a sweet, serene sensation in the heart center. That was beautiful. So thank you, Source Intelligence.
PAM: The dissolving and it was very emotional actually, so tears of gratitude and remembrance wanted to come up.
DAVID: Yes, yes. And I have a feeling that because in many ways, human experience, the heart itself has been somewhat greatly saddened by that lack of connectivity because it is, the heart itself is a biological organ, which is the receptor point for the Source intelligence. And in that diminished state, lots of people, including myself, have had to clear lots of grief, lots of sadness.
And it's all to do with that disconnection. It's like when that wellspring is diminished, I mean, it never fully turns off, but when it's diminished, it's like all the atmosphere, the environment just goes dull and gray and it all just seems a little bit pointless and just empty. But the truth is that's coming back on.
And again, this picture is like, I'm just going to, if you imagine this as your being this bright light is breaking through. And I know the trees, the trees are beautiful, but I'm just using this as an analogy, that it's breaking through what appears to be a veil of darkness or lack of light.
And suddenly you get this huge emanation across here of everything starting to luminesce and starting to glow again. And that is where I feel we're going. And I really don't say these words likely. I'm not trying to wax lyrical or be philosophical or anything. This truly is my perception of what is happening, that we are moving absolutely into this new paradigm.
And it is all from here. [puts hand on heart] This is the ignition point. This is the Source point. This is where it all takes place from. I cannot overemphasize that enough and the teams have said it many times to me as well. It really is, there's nothing more important than really opening and forging that beautiful, surrendered connectivity with your Source intelligence within.

PAM: Well, it sounds like Christmas.

DAVID: That's very cool.

PAM: Every conversation I have with you, David, is mind-blowing, but I think this has probably been the most mind-blowing and the most profound that I've shared with you. And I feel that many of the people watching this will feel the same. You have just absolutely showered us with unexpected and glorious gifts and I'm just so happy you are on this Earth at the same time.

DAVID: Well, thank you for that, but also what I'd like to remind everybody of is just always remember that this whole process that's taking place, it really is taking place within you and I always say to people, remember the magnificence you have inside you. Whatever magnificence you see in anybody else is the same magnificence you see inside you. And to really remember and feel that because I see a lot of people who when they speak, they speak as in a sort of self-diminishing way, as if they don't have this, oh you have this.

No, you have it too. It's just yet to fully come through yet, that's all it is. And I just like to remind people of that because I see the light go on when I tell that to people to say yes, you see, you have been the Source of intelligence all along. You've just clearing away the forgetfulness, you know. So all the great things are coming to you and you just need to be open to it. That's all.

PAM: You are our jump leads. I think you are certainly one set of jump leads that we can rely on. So just bless you, bless you, bless you, David. On behalf of everyone listening, I know people will just get so much from this. It's such a crucial time of change and turbulence and challenge. But great glory and great love.

DAVID: Yes. Yes. That's the aim, definitely. That's the aim. So you're very welcome. And you know to everybody, I hope you've got whatever you want to, whatever you need to get from this and wish you a beautiful day. And I wish you the most beautiful experience of finding that in here [points to heart] for yourselves in every waking moment and sleeping moment that you have.

So love to you all and bless you all. And thank you so much, Pam, I really love having these chats with you, both in recording and in private as well. So thank you so much.

PAM: So loads of love to you, David, and to everybody out there listening. What a ride this has been. So beautiful. Lots of love, everyone.

DAVID: Bye-bye.